One Day Workshop cum Orientation Program with the FSOs of Delhi

On 27th August, 2018, IEST conducted a one day workshop cum orientation program with all the Food Safety Officers of Delhi at Office & Facilitation Centre, Department of Food Safety at Mayur Bhawan. The event was headed by the Food Safety Commissioner of Delhi who raised the topics on different food safety issues and the laws related to the prevention of it.

Dr Surendra S Ghanrokta, former director of FSSAI and the president of Council for Promotion, Research and Trade in Traditional Food (CPRTTF) explained the process of bringing Food Safety Training and Certification (FoSTaC) program into reality. He also discussed the issues related to the implementation of Food Safety laws. He discussed about his works during his days in the FSSAI and what perimeters FSSAI considered to bring a new law which was a very good learning opportunity for everyone.

Mr Uday Saxena, a member of the FSSAI scientific panel for labelling and claims/advertisements explained various norms, rules and laws related to Food Safety issues, recall and withdrawal of products etc. He also shared various experiences of him working in the food industry for a long time. His session was a very enlightening experience for everyone present there.

The participants were also shown some case studies from different states across India on food safety issues and how they were dealt with, so that others can follow those examples to resolve similar situations.

Mr Anil Shrama, Director of Operation and Dr Priyanka Bhardwaj, Additional Secretary General, CPRTTF also joined the program and reported the ground reality that were coming from the surveys conducted by IEST in collaboration with CPRTTF.

It was a successful event which was able to achieve its goal.
